Text from a letter by Beethoven in 1821

Extraordinarily Beloved Friend,

Let us begin with the primary original causes of all things, something came about, wherefore and why it came about in that particular way and became what it is, why something is what it is, why something cannot be exactly so!!! Here, dear friend, we have reached the tickle which my delicacy forbids me to reveal to you at once. All that we can say is: it cannot be!
