Preface

This Toccata was commissioned for the International Piano Competition of the Wienischen Akademie of Music. It may be played on its own, of course, but also Adagio provides a contrasting counterpart for a concert programme, making the whole a more interesting cyclical work. The vis vitalis or vital force of the Toccata expresses the intense awareness of Spring with an ecstatic motor beat and a poetic touch, bringing us back to a time that tells of youth.

The Adagio 'The Art of Quietness' is a Zen exercise for the pianist, bringing thoughts of eternity, timelessness and emptying of desire: there is something forceful in its ritual measure (the tempo crotchet = 60 should be strictly observed), but also raw silence. This is music about reaching the end, about old age: fragments of quotations from Wagner's 'Tristan chord', allusions to Beethoven's Les Adieux and the Till Eulenspiegel-motif (Richard Strauss) are melancholy reminders of the past.

Die Toccata ist ein Zitatfragment für den Internationalen Klavierwettbewerb der Musikakademie Wien abgelegt. Sie ist natürlich einzeln spielbar, hat jedoch für eine Verwendung in Klavierprogramme bestimmt. Sie ist als extremer Gegenspieler, was das Ganze zu einem interessanten musikalischen Kontrast. Die Toccata drückt als „vis vitalis“ das rauschhafte Frühlingsgefühl mit ekstatischer Motorik und einem Hauch sehn suchtvoller Poesie aus: Musik der Jugend.

Adagio 'The Art of Quietness' („Die Kunst der Ruhe“) ist eine Zen-Übung für Klavier: Unendlichkeit, Stille und Entleerung des Wollens wird hier evoziert, im rituellen Gleichmaß (das Tempos Viertel = 60 ist kompromisslos einzuhalten) liegt etwas Gewaltiges, wie das Dröhnen der Stille. Es ist Musik des Endes, des Alters: Die Zitatfragmente (Wagners „Tristan-Akkord“, Beethovens Les Adieux und von R. Strauss das Till Eulenspiegel-Motiv sind wehmütige Erinnerungen an Vergangenes.
